

Remotely triggered small avalanches

Date

Fri, 01/26/2024 - 00:35

Activity

Skiing

Skier triggered several small avalanches while skiing near the zimmer creek yurt and observed a large natural avalanche on Sheep Mountain.

From email: "

I did not get a good photo but yesterday (01/24) skiing out of the yurt with friends noticed a large natural on the NorthEast facing bowl on Sheep Mountain. Similar size to the Henderson slide if not a little larger.

~300 ft. crown and ran a similar distance (300-400ft?)

Also remote triggered a few D1 avalanches over the past 2 days. Continuous cracking/collapsing even in a day old skin track. "

Region

Cooke City

Location (from list)

Zimmer Creek

Observer Name

Gloria Roe